

Defend and Publish

Episode 93 Favorite Academic Productivity Podcasts

THE PRODUCTIVITY SHOW

BY ASIANEFFICIENCY

Win Back Time, Double Your Energy And Achieve Your Goals!

The Academic Life

NBN

The Academic Life

Subscribe

Listen in these apps:

Apple Podcasts Preview

12 episodes

An academic librarian and a computer scientist talk about supporting academic research from totally different perspectives. We lift the lid and chat about how it all works under the hood, demystifying some of the things that go on in the background to make the academic machine work, from tackling the world of information and managing the tidal wave of Big Data through to developments in scholarly communications to research assessment.

Research Pages

Podcast on supporting academic research

Education

Listen on Apple Podcasts ↗

AUG 27, 2022

Ep12 US open access developments

It was announced that the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy has updated US policy guidance to make the results of taxpayer-supported research immediately available to the American public at no cost. We discuss this development in open research. Further information is...

▶ PLAY 22 min

JUN 12, 2022

Ep11 Reimagining academic publishing

Some things drive us crazy about the current academic publishing system so we set out to reimagine the whole process.

▶ PLAY 30 min

APR 10, 2022

Ep10 Rights Retention

When we publish papers we want to keep some sort of rights over that work, to allow us to comply

100 Mistakes Academic Writers Make ...and How to Fix Them

A podcast for academics and other writers who need to get work done

